

The four Eastern rooms of the second story of the White House are used as offices by the President's private Secretary, Levi P. Luckey, and his assistant, Amos C. Corbin. It is not easy to digest the immense amount of correspondence addressed to the President, much of which he directs to be sent to the different departments, with notes of his views concerning the subject matter thereof. Every paper is filed or noted with military precision, and no application, whether for place or for pardon, is unnoticed.

Next to the President's own business room, which is the second one from the east, on the south side, is that in which the cabinet meets, and where the President receives the scores of visitors who daily call upon him. There is a large oval table in the center, surrounded by chairs, and here the most important national measures are discussed and decided at the regular meetings on Tuesdays and Fridays, when each head of a department in turn produces his budget of matters requiring attention.

From these official rooms, which are often seen by gentlemen who have business with the President, we passed into what are known as the private apartments. First, we entered the library, which is situated up with mahogany bookcases, tolerably well filled, and oak furniture. This was the reception room of Mrs. John Adams, for in her day none of the down-stair parlors were either furnished or finished, and she used to have her Monday and Tuesday luncheon on the south side, in the library.

Next to the library is the President's bedroom, plainly furnished, and opening into Mrs. Grant's sitting-room, on the other side of which is Miss Nellie's room. The sitting room has blue curtains and the furniture is covered with blue, white and red. It is a very comfortable room, and the President's study, which is the most elegant of his apartments, is the last room on the south side. It is the chamber of Mrs. Grant's father, Mr. Dent, now in his 85th year. The family life at the White House is very simple. All about 7, and a substantial breakfast is served at 8, the President bringing his favorite newspapers to the table, and reading them as he enjoys his coffee and toast. After breakfast the President takes a short walk, returning to his office at 10, and remaining there until about 4, when he takes another walk or perhaps a short drive.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Grant and Miss Nellie have attended to their household duties, received the calls of friends, and perhaps make a few. At 5 o'clock, when dinner is served, a plain repast, of which a dish of bouillabaisse is always a part. After dinner there is always an informal reception in the blue parlor, with an occasional conference on political subjects in the President's office up-stairs. Such is the daily life of our Chief Magistrate and his family. (Washington Letter to Boston Journal.)

A BALTIMORE MATRON COWHIDES A CLERK.—About 11 o'clock on last Monday morning a quiet looking middle-aged woman, named Mrs. Kramer, who was accompanied by her husband, entered the well known stationery store of Gunglesheimer & Well, No. 137 West Baltimore street, and inquired for a clerk employed there, named Wm. Hagdell. That person was called, and coming, forward spoke to Mrs. Kramer, and offered to shake hands with her. She did not shake hands with him, but on the contrary, she pulled out a very serviceable looking cowhide, and laid a dart at the unfortunate Randall, caught his collar and went vigorously at work, while her husband stood by smiling, and seemingly enjoying the whole affair. Randall struggled and writhed under the shower of blows, for some time, without speaking a word, but the woman soon made it so warm for him that he was compelled to stop for help. No person, however, interfered, and things were going on swimmingly, when Randall succeeded in tearing himself from his tormentor's grasp, and rushed rapidly out of the store, leaving Mrs. Kramer mistaking the door, and was not disposed to make any explanations, but quietly taking her husband's arm she walked away, passing quite a crowd of people that had been attracted by the novelty of the scene. As she walked down Baltimore street she carried the cowhide firmly in her right hand, and every few steps she would switch it against her dress, as if she longed for other worlds to conquer. Mrs. Kramer is an employee of Turnbull & Bros., No. 8 South Charles street, and lives on Scott street. The cowhiding was initiated in consequence of the fact that Randall had offered her daughter.—(Baltimore American.)

A BALTIMORE MATRON COWHIDES A CLERK.—About 11 o'clock on last Monday morning a quiet looking middle-aged woman, named Mrs. Kramer, who was accompanied by her husband, entered the well known stationery store of Gunglesheimer & Well, No. 137 West Baltimore street, and inquired for a clerk employed there, named Wm. Hagdell. That person was called, and coming, forward spoke to Mrs. Kramer, and offered to shake hands with her. She did not shake hands with him, but on the contrary, she pulled out a very serviceable looking cowhide, and laid a dart at the unfortunate Randall, caught his collar and went vigorously at work, while her husband stood by smiling, and seemingly enjoying the whole affair. Randall struggled and writhed under the shower of blows, for some time, without speaking a word, but the woman soon made it so warm for him that he was compelled to stop for help. No person, however, interfered, and things were going on swimmingly, when Randall succeeded in tearing himself from his tormentor's grasp, and rushed rapidly out of the store, leaving Mrs. Kramer mistaking the door, and was not disposed to make any explanations, but quietly taking her husband's arm she walked away, passing quite a crowd of people that had been attracted by the novelty of the scene. As she walked down Baltimore street she carried the cowhide firmly in her right hand, and every few steps she would switch it against her dress, as if she longed for other worlds to conquer. Mrs. Kramer is an employee of Turnbull & Bros., No. 8 South Charles street, and lives on Scott street. The cowhiding was initiated in consequence of the fact that Randall had offered her daughter.—(Baltimore American.)

A BALTIMORE MATRON COWHIDES A CLERK.—About 11 o'clock on last Monday morning a quiet looking middle-aged woman, named Mrs. Kramer, who was accompanied by her husband, entered the well known stationery store of Gunglesheimer & Well, No. 137 West Baltimore street, and inquired for a clerk employed there, named Wm. Hagdell. That person was called, and coming, forward spoke to Mrs. Kramer, and offered to shake hands with her. She did not shake hands with him, but on the contrary, she pulled out a very serviceable looking cowhide, and laid a dart at the unfortunate Randall, caught his collar and went vigorously at work, while her husband stood by smiling, and seemingly enjoying the whole affair. Randall struggled and writhed under the shower of blows, for some time, without speaking a word, but the woman soon made it so warm for him that he was compelled to stop for help. No person, however, interfered, and things were going on swimmingly, when Randall succeeded in tearing himself from his tormentor's grasp, and rushed rapidly out of the store, leaving Mrs. Kramer mistaking the door, and was not disposed to make any explanations, but quietly taking her husband's arm she walked away, passing quite a crowd of people that had been attracted by the novelty of the scene. As she walked down Baltimore street she carried the cowhide firmly in her right hand, and every few steps she would switch it against her dress, as if she longed for other worlds to conquer. Mrs. Kramer is an employee of Turnbull & Bros., No. 8 South Charles street, and lives on Scott street. The cowhiding was initiated in consequence of the fact that Randall had offered her daughter.—(Baltimore American.)

A BALTIMORE MATRON COWHIDES A CLERK.—About 11 o'clock on last Monday morning a quiet looking middle-aged woman, named Mrs. Kramer, who was accompanied by her husband, entered the well known stationery store of Gunglesheimer & Well, No. 137 West Baltimore street, and inquired for a clerk employed there, named Wm. Hagdell. That person was called, and coming, forward spoke to Mrs. Kramer, and offered to shake hands with her. She did not shake hands with him, but on the contrary, she pulled out a very serviceable looking cowhide, and laid a dart at the unfortunate Randall, caught his collar and went vigorously at work, while her husband stood by smiling, and seemingly enjoying the whole affair. Randall struggled and writhed under the shower of blows, for some time, without speaking a word, but the woman soon made it so warm for him that he was compelled to stop for help. No person, however, interfered, and things were going on swimmingly, when Randall succeeded in tearing himself from his tormentor's grasp, and rushed rapidly out of the store, leaving Mrs. Kramer mistaking the door, and was not disposed to make any explanations, but quietly taking her husband's arm she walked away, passing quite a crowd of people that had been attracted by the novelty of the scene. As she walked down Baltimore street she carried the cowhide firmly in her right hand, and every few steps she would switch it against her dress, as if she longed for other worlds to conquer. Mrs. Kramer is an employee of Turnbull & Bros., No. 8 South Charles street, and lives on Scott street. The cowhiding was initiated in consequence of the fact that Randall had offered her daughter.—(Baltimore American.)

A BALTIMORE MATRON COWHIDES A CLERK.—About 11 o'clock on last Monday morning a quiet looking middle-aged woman, named Mrs. Kramer, who was accompanied by her husband, entered the well known stationery store of Gunglesheimer & Well, No. 137 West Baltimore street, and inquired for a clerk employed there, named Wm. Hagdell. That person was called, and coming, forward spoke to Mrs. Kramer, and offered to shake hands with her. She did not shake hands with him, but on the contrary, she pulled out a very serviceable looking cowhide, and laid a dart at the unfortunate Randall, caught his collar and went vigorously at work, while her husband stood by smiling, and seemingly enjoying the whole affair. Randall struggled and writhed under the shower of blows, for some time, without speaking a word, but the woman soon made it so warm for him that he was compelled to stop for help. No person, however, interfered, and things were going on swimmingly, when Randall succeeded in tearing himself from his tormentor's grasp, and rushed rapidly out of the store, leaving Mrs. Kramer mistaking the door, and was not disposed to make any explanations, but quietly taking her husband's arm she walked away, passing quite a crowd of people that had been attracted by the novelty of the scene. As she walked down Baltimore street she carried the cowhide firmly in her right hand, and every few steps she would switch it against her dress, as if she longed for other worlds to conquer. Mrs. Kramer is an employee of Turnbull & Bros., No. 8 South Charles street, and lives on Scott street. The cowhiding was initiated in consequence of the fact that Randall had offered her daughter.—(Baltimore American.)

A BALTIMORE MATRON COWHIDES A CLERK.—About 11 o'clock on last Monday morning a quiet looking middle-aged woman, named Mrs. Kramer, who was accompanied by her husband, entered the well known stationery store of Gunglesheimer & Well, No. 137 West Baltimore street, and inquired for a clerk employed there, named Wm. Hagdell. That person was called, and coming, forward spoke to Mrs. Kramer, and offered to shake hands with her. She did not shake hands with him, but on the contrary, she pulled out a very serviceable looking cowhide, and laid a dart at the unfortunate Randall, caught his collar and went vigorously at work, while her husband stood by smiling, and seemingly enjoying the whole affair. Randall struggled and writhed under the shower of blows, for some time, without speaking a word, but the woman soon made it so warm for him that he was compelled to stop for help. No person, however, interfered, and things were going on swimmingly, when Randall succeeded in tearing himself from his tormentor's grasp, and rushed rapidly out of the store, leaving Mrs. Kramer mistaking the door, and was not disposed to make any explanations, but quietly taking her husband's arm she walked away, passing quite a crowd of people that had been attracted by the novelty of the scene. As she walked down Baltimore street she carried the cowhide firmly in her right hand, and every few steps she would switch it against her dress, as if she longed for other worlds to conquer. Mrs. Kramer is an employee of Turnbull & Bros., No. 8 South Charles street, and lives on Scott street. The cowhiding was initiated in consequence of the fact that Randall had offered her daughter.—(Baltimore American.)

A BALTIMORE MATRON COWHIDES A CLERK.—About 11 o'clock on last Monday morning a quiet looking middle-aged woman, named Mrs. Kramer, who was accompanied by her husband, entered the well known stationery store of Gunglesheimer & Well, No. 137 West Baltimore street, and inquired for a clerk employed there, named Wm. Hagdell. That person was called, and coming, forward spoke to Mrs. Kramer, and offered to shake hands with her. She did not shake hands with him, but on the contrary, she pulled out a very serviceable looking cowhide, and laid a dart at the unfortunate Randall, caught his collar and went vigorously at work, while her husband stood by smiling, and seemingly enjoying the whole affair. Randall struggled and writhed under the shower of blows, for some time, without speaking a word, but the woman soon made it so warm for him that he was compelled to stop for help. No person, however, interfered, and things were going on swimmingly, when Randall succeeded in tearing himself from his tormentor's grasp, and rushed rapidly out of the store, leaving Mrs. Kramer mistaking the door, and was not disposed to make any explanations, but quietly taking her husband's arm she walked away, passing quite a crowd of people that had been attracted by the novelty of the scene. As she walked down Baltimore street she carried the cowhide firmly in her right hand, and every few steps she would switch it against her dress, as if she longed for other worlds to conquer. Mrs. Kramer is an employee of Turnbull & Bros., No. 8 South Charles street, and lives on Scott street. The cowhiding was initiated in consequence of the fact that Randall had offered her daughter.—(Baltimore American.)

A BALTIMORE MATRON COWHIDES A CLERK.—About 11 o'clock on last Monday morning a quiet looking middle-aged woman, named Mrs. Kramer, who was accompanied by her husband, entered the well known stationery store of Gunglesheimer & Well, No. 137 West Baltimore street, and inquired for a clerk employed there, named Wm. Hagdell. That person was called, and coming, forward spoke to Mrs. Kramer, and offered to shake hands with her. She did not shake hands with him, but on the contrary, she pulled out a very serviceable looking cowhide, and laid a dart at the unfortunate Randall, caught his collar and went vigorously at work, while her husband stood by smiling, and seemingly enjoying the whole affair. Randall struggled and writhed under the shower of blows, for some time, without speaking a word, but the woman soon made it so warm for him that he was compelled to stop for help. No person, however, interfered, and things were going on swimmingly, when Randall succeeded in tearing himself from his tormentor's grasp, and rushed rapidly out of the store, leaving Mrs. Kramer mistaking the door, and was not disposed to make any explanations, but quietly taking her husband's arm she walked away, passing quite a crowd of people that had been attracted by the novelty of the scene. As she walked down Baltimore street she carried the cowhide firmly in her right hand, and every few steps she would switch it against her dress, as if she longed for other worlds to conquer. Mrs. Kramer is an employee of Turnbull & Bros., No. 8 South Charles street, and lives on Scott street. The cowhiding was initiated in consequence of the fact that Randall had offered her daughter.—(Baltimore American.)

A BALTIMORE MATRON COWHIDES A CLERK.—About 11 o'clock on last Monday morning a quiet looking middle-aged woman, named Mrs. Kramer, who was accompanied by her husband, entered the well known stationery store of Gunglesheimer & Well, No. 137 West Baltimore street, and inquired for a clerk employed there, named Wm. Hagdell. That person was called, and coming, forward spoke to Mrs. Kramer, and offered to shake hands with her. She did not shake hands with him, but on the contrary, she pulled out a very serviceable looking cowhide, and laid a dart at the unfortunate Randall, caught his collar and went vigorously at work, while her husband stood by smiling, and seemingly enjoying the whole affair. Randall struggled and writhed under the shower of blows, for some time, without speaking a word, but the woman soon made it so warm for him that he was compelled to stop for help. No person, however, interfered, and things were going on swimmingly, when Randall succeeded in tearing himself from his tormentor's grasp, and rushed rapidly out of the store, leaving Mrs. Kramer mistaking the door, and was not disposed to make any explanations, but quietly taking her husband's arm she walked away, passing quite a crowd of people that had been attracted by the novelty of the scene. As she walked down Baltimore street she carried the cowhide firmly in her right hand, and every few steps she would switch it against her dress, as if she longed for other worlds to conquer. Mrs. Kramer is an employee of Turnbull & Bros., No. 8 South Charles street, and lives on Scott street. The cowhiding was initiated in consequence of the fact that Randall had offered her daughter.—(Baltimore American.)

A BALTIMORE MATRON COWHIDES A CLERK.—About 11 o'clock on last Monday morning a quiet looking middle-aged woman, named Mrs. Kramer, who was accompanied by her husband, entered the well known stationery store of Gunglesheimer & Well, No. 137 West Baltimore street, and inquired for a clerk employed there, named Wm. Hagdell. That person was called, and coming, forward spoke to Mrs. Kramer, and offered to shake hands with her. She did not shake hands with him, but on the contrary, she pulled out a very serviceable looking cowhide, and laid a dart at the unfortunate Randall, caught his collar and went vigorously at work, while her husband stood by smiling, and seemingly enjoying the whole affair. Randall struggled and writhed under the shower of blows, for some time, without speaking a word, but the woman soon made it so warm for him that he was compelled to stop for help. No person, however, interfered, and things were going on swimmingly, when Randall succeeded in tearing himself from his tormentor's grasp, and rushed rapidly out of the store, leaving Mrs. Kramer mistaking the door, and was not disposed to make any explanations, but quietly taking her husband's arm she walked away, passing quite a crowd of people that had been attracted by the novelty of the scene. As she walked down Baltimore street she carried the cowhide firmly in her right hand, and every few steps she would switch it against her dress, as if she longed for other worlds to conquer. Mrs. Kramer is an employee of Turnbull & Bros., No. 8 South Charles street, and lives on Scott street. The cowhiding was initiated in consequence of the fact that Randall had offered her daughter.—(Baltimore American.)

A BALTIMORE MATRON COWHIDES A CLERK.—About 11 o'clock on last Monday morning a quiet looking middle-aged woman, named Mrs. Kramer, who was accompanied by her husband, entered the well known stationery store of Gunglesheimer & Well, No. 137 West Baltimore street, and inquired for a clerk employed there, named Wm. Hagdell. That person was called, and coming, forward spoke to Mrs. Kramer, and offered to shake hands with her. She did not shake hands with him, but on the contrary, she pulled out a very serviceable looking cowhide, and laid a dart at the unfortunate Randall, caught his collar and went vigorously at work, while her husband stood by smiling, and seemingly enjoying the whole affair. Randall struggled and writhed under the shower of blows, for some time, without speaking a word, but the woman soon made it so warm for him that he was compelled to stop for help. No person, however, interfered, and things were going on swimmingly, when Randall succeeded in tearing himself from his tormentor's grasp, and rushed rapidly out of the store, leaving Mrs. Kramer mistaking the door, and was not disposed to make any explanations, but quietly taking her husband's arm she walked away, passing quite a crowd of people that had been attracted by the novelty of the scene. As she walked down Baltimore street she carried the cowhide firmly in her right hand, and every few steps she would switch it against her dress, as if she longed for other worlds to conquer. Mrs. Kramer is an employee of Turnbull & Bros., No. 8 South Charles street, and lives on Scott street. The cowhiding was initiated in consequence of the fact that Randall had offered her daughter.—(Baltimore American.)

A BALTIMORE MATRON COWHIDES A CLERK.—About 11 o'clock on last Monday morning a quiet looking middle-aged woman, named Mrs. Kramer, who was accompanied by her husband, entered the well known stationery store of Gunglesheimer & Well, No. 137 West Baltimore street, and inquired for a clerk employed there, named Wm. Hagdell. That person was called, and coming, forward spoke to Mrs. Kramer, and offered to shake hands with her. She did not shake hands with him, but on the contrary, she pulled out a very serviceable looking cowhide, and laid a dart at the unfortunate Randall, caught his collar and went vigorously at work, while her husband stood by smiling, and seemingly enjoying the whole affair. Randall struggled and writhed under the shower of blows, for some time, without speaking a word, but the woman soon made it so warm for him that he was compelled to stop for help. No person, however, interfered, and things were going on swimmingly, when Randall succeeded in tearing himself from his tormentor's grasp, and rushed rapidly out of the store, leaving Mrs. Kramer mistaking the door, and was not disposed to make any explanations, but quietly taking her husband's arm she walked away, passing quite a crowd of people that had been attracted by the novelty of the scene. As she walked down Baltimore street she carried the cowhide firmly in her right hand, and every few steps she would switch it against her dress, as if she longed for other worlds to conquer. Mrs. Kramer is an employee of Turnbull & Bros., No. 8 South Charles street, and lives on Scott street. The cowhiding was initiated in consequence of the fact that Randall had offered her daughter.—(Baltimore American.)

PIOCHE DAILY RECORD.

VOL. VI.

PIOCHE, NEVADA, FRIDAY, AUGUST 22, 1873.

NO. 130.

LOUISVILLE has unwittingly committed itself to a grand transformation, by voting to send drunks home instead of to the lockup. Not even the most confirmed inebriates require second treatment. They generally come out about the third day, a little more bald, and with a scared look about the eyes that tells of the chastening influences of a good Christian home.

An angler on Trout Lake, Ontario, lately had his hat blown away, and while rowing hard to recover it was surprised to see it spinning across the water at a tremendous rate. On overlooking it he found that a large trout had taken an artificial fly attached to the hat, but the line broke before the trout could be secured.

A REPEATED INDIAN man offered the victim of his revolver price $10,000 if he would only get well. The wounded man was anxious for revenge, and wanted his assailant hung; but $10,000 is a good deal of money, so he accepted it.

RECOMMENDING the social necessities of the times, Rice county, Kansas, has offered a premium to the lady making the best shot with a revolver at the coming fair.

THE women who recently spilled all the whisky in Remington, Ind., and smashed the bar-room furniture, have been let off with a fine of $5 each.

THE Titusville Herald says that the air of the oil regions is almost specific for the relief of asthma, and at the same time a preventive of consumption.

REMAINING IN THE POSTOFFICE AT Pioche, Nev., August 20, 1873.

REMAINING IN THE POSTOFFICE AT Pioche, Nev., August 20, 1873.

REMAINING IN THE POSTOFFICE AT Pioche, Nev., August 20, 1873.

REMAINING IN THE POSTOFFICE AT Pioche, Nev., August 20, 1873.

REMAINING IN THE POSTOFFICE AT Pioche, Nev., August 20, 1873.

REMAINING IN THE POSTOFFICE AT Pioche, Nev., August 20, 1873.

REMAINING IN THE POSTOFFICE AT Pioche, Nev., August 20, 1873.

REMAINING IN THE POSTOFFICE AT Pioche, Nev., August 20, 1873.

REMAINING IN THE POSTOFFICE AT Pioche, Nev., August 20, 1873.

REMAINING IN THE POSTOFFICE AT Pioche, Nev., August 20, 1873.

REMAINING IN THE POSTOFFICE AT Pioche, Nev., August 20, 1873.

REMAINING IN THE POSTOFFICE AT Pioche, Nev., August 20, 1873.

REMAINING IN THE POSTOFFICE AT Pioche, Nev., August 20, 1873.

Professional Cards.

T. D. EDWARDS,
ATTORNEY AND COUNSELOR AT LAW,
CARSON CITY, NEVADA.
Will practice in all the Courts of this State.

Being Attorney for the Central Pacific Railroad Company, will obtain title to the lands belonging to the Company, for any parties wishing to purchase.

Having paid special attention to the practice before the United States Land Office for nine years, respectfully tenders his services for that branch of business. Will take necessary steps to secure the selection of lands by the State, and obtain patents for the same for parties with or without their being present.

Having an associate Attorney at Washington, special attention will be given to obtaining patents to public lands and mines, as well as suits and business generally before the Department.

AUD & BERRY,
ATTORNEYS AT LAW,
OFFICE: West side Main street, in State Bank building, up stairs, Pioche, Nevada.
j22-4f

T. R. BUTLER,
ASSAYER.
OFFICE: MEADOW VALLEY STREET, OPPOSITE PIOCHE HOISTING WORKS.

Complete Facilities for Melting and Assaying Bullion.
Of every description carefully assayed.
j22-4f

DR. H. BERGSTEN,
[LATE OF SAN FRANCISCO.]
Physician, Surgeon and Accoucheur.
OFFICE—White's Building, Main street, near the State Bank of Nevada.
j22-4f

DR. D. L. DEAL,
OFFICE at Drug Store, Main street,
PIOCHE, NEVADA.
j22-4f

DR. BISHOP & LEE,
Physicians & Surgeons,
Main Street,
PIOCHE, NEVADA.
j22-4f

W. W. BISHOP, M. D.,
S. L. LEE, M. D.,
DR. OF DRUG STORE, Main street,
PIOCHE, NEVADA.
j22-4f

Bishop & Sabin,
ATTORNEYS AT LAW,
PIOCHE, LINCOLN COUNTY, NEV.
j22-4f

Pitzer & Corson,
Attorneys at Law,
PIOCHE CITY, NEVADA.
D. CORSON, U. S. COURT COMMISSIONER.
j22-4f

HORACE D. BEENE,
ATTORNEY AT LAW
—A N D—
NOTARY PUBLIC FOR LINCOLN COUNTY,
j22-4f

W. W. FETTERMAN, M. D.,
Homoeopathic Physician,
Office on Lacombe Street,
Between the Post Office and the Court House.
j22-4f

DENTISTRY.
ANY ONE FAVORING ME WITH their patronage may expect every effort to be made to make all operations as perfect as possible.
Office: Main street, Pioche, best door to Halpin's. [j22-4f] F. C. NICHOLS.

SINE & GRANGER,
Attorneys at Law
BELMONT, NEVADA.
ALSO,
RECEIVER AND REGISTER
OF THE Land Office for this District.
j22-4f

DR. C. HARENBERG,
Physician & Surgeon,
OFFICE ON MEADOW VALLEY STREET,
in Logan's Lodging House.
Special attention paid to private diseases.
Our guarantee of money refunded.
Office hours, 10 a. m. till 2 p. m. Evening, from 5 to 9. j22-4f

J. EISENMANN & CO.,
MAIN STREET, NEVADA,
PIOCHE, NEVADA,
IMPORTERS AND DEALERS IN HARDWARE,
STOVES, CROCKERY, GLASS-WARE, AND HOUSE FURNI-SHING GOODS.
Manufacturers of Copper, Tin and Sheet-iron Ware. Plumbers, Steam and Gas Fitters.
j22-4f

WE ARE NOW PREPARED TO CONtract for Air Pipe, Blowers, Furnace pipe, Lift Pumps, &c., of any required size and weight.
Also Agents for the Celebrated Buck's Patent
Cook Stoves. j22-4f

AUCTION SALES.
E. A. FRIEND,
Auction and Commission Merchant,
—DEALER IN—
NEW AND SECOND-HAND
FURNITURE.
Salesrooms, Main Street,
Next Door to Frank Wheeler's Hardware Store.
REGULAR SALE DAYS—Every SATURDAY, at 11 o'clock a. m.
Sales of Furniture at residences. Outdoor Sales of Merchandise of every description promptly attended to. Cash advances on commodities. j22-4f

Real Estate Agent, Houses to Rent and Bents Collected.
E. A. FRIEND, Upper Main Street.
j22-4f

J. R. STAPLES & CO.,
Pioche Street, below the Postoffice,
DEALERS IN FURNITURE,
—AND—
Manufacturers of Upholstery
OF ALL KINDS,
which they offer for sale at reasonable prices.
Spring Mattresses, Hair Mattresses, Lounges and Window Curtains. Also, PAPER HANGING.
—AND—Undertaking. —A splendid Jobbing and Repairing establishment and promptly. j22-4f

Business Cards.

CARILL & FOX,
STOCK BROKERS,
406 MONTGOMERY STREET,
San Francisco, Cal. j22-4f

U. S. PATENTS FOR MINERAL LANDS.
N. WESCOATT,
HAVING JUST RECEIVED THE APPOINTment of U. S. Deputy Mineral Surveyor for the District of Lincoln County, hereby gives notice to the owners of mining claims and all other claims within this County, that he is now prepared to execute the necessary surveys, required by law, for parties who may be desirous of securing their claims by a patent from the Government. All the necessary information as to the requisite preliminary steps will be afforded on applying to the above, at his office on Meadow Valley street, immediately below the Meadow Valley Pump House.

S. R. Wescott will continue to give his best attention to mining surveying and engineering. j22-4f

JACOBS & SULTAN,
Pioche & Bullionville,
WHOLESALE AND RETAIL DEALERS IN GENERAL MERCHANDISE, ETC.

Particular attention paid to COUNTRY ORDERS.
j22-4f

H. WARD,
UNDERTAKER.
ROSEWOOD AND METAL-LIC CASES constantly on hand.

Special Attention Given to the Shipment of Bodies East or West.
A SPLENDID HEARSE
Always in Attendance. j22-4f

E. A. FARGO & CO.,
IMPORTERS & JOBBERS
—OF—
BRANDIES, WINES AND LIQUORS,
316 Front st., Corner Commercial st.,
SAN FRANCISCO.
j22-4f

Donahoe & Quillin's Bakery.
MEADOW VALLEY ST., PIOCHE
ALL KINDS OF PASTRY TO ORDER and constantly on hand.

DEALERS IN—LIQUORS, PROVISIONS AND GENERAL GROCERIES.

D. O. CLARK & BROTHER
STONE STORE,
LOWER MAIN STREET,
PIOCHE, NEVADA,
WHOLESALE AND RETAIL
—DEALERS IN—
GROCERIES,
PROVISIONS, POWDER, FUSE,
AND GENERAL MERCHANDISE.
j22-4f

Lotteries.
GRAND GIFT CONCERT!
The Drawing will Positively Take Place on Sept. 4, 1873.
AUTHORIZED BY THE
STATE OF NEVADA,
UNDER AN ACT OF THE LEGISLATURE
Approved March 3, 1871.

$265,000.00!
IN GOLD COIN IN PRIZES.
2 Grand Gold Coin Gifts of $25,000 each.....$50,000
2 Grand Gold Coin Gifts of $15,000 each.....30,000
2 Grand Gold Coin Gifts of $10,000 each.....20,000
4 Gold Coin Gifts of $5,000 each.....20,000
10 Gold Coin Gifts of $2,000 each.....20,000
20 Gold Coin Gifts of $1,000 each.....20,000
60 Gold Coin Gifts of $500 each.....30,000
100 Gold Coin Gifts of $200 each.....20,000
300 Gold Coin Gifts of $100 each.....30,000
500 Gold Coin Gifts of $50 each.....25,000
1,000 Gifts, amounting to.....$265,000

Tickets $5 each. To be obtained at the office of the undersigned, or at the counter of the State Bank of Nevada.
j22-4f

H. R. BREAKEY,
Special Agent for Lincoln County.
Royal Havana Lottery.
$450,000 DRAWN EVERY SEVEN
TEEN DAYS.
H. R. BREAKEY, Special Agent for Lincoln County.

HAVING MADE ARRANGEMENTS WITH U. S. Consul-General Torbert at Havana, can now offer Tickets at the following low RATES, IN GOLD:
Whole Tickets, $25; Half, $12.50; Quarters,
$6.25; Fifths, $3.125; Tenths, $1.5625.
Twenty-fifths, $1.5625.

Club now ready, in which parties can invest $250 or upwards at wholesale rates.
For Tickets and full particulars address j22-4f H. M. JAMESON, Pioche, Nev.

Grand Gift Concert!
CAPITAL GIFT, $30,000!
—BEING THE—
BOWERS MANSION,
Lands and Furniture,
100 OTHER GIFTS,
Aggregating $70,000!

Drawn September 1, 1873. Ticket
$4.50 each; Twenty-five for $57, or Fifty for $113.
WM. THOMPSON, Manager,
Franklin, Nev.
The above Club rates are offered by one-half by the Managers.
j22-4f H. M. JAMESON, Agent,
Pioche, Nev.

Saloons.

E. HAMILTON,
Wholesale and Retail
—Dealer in—
FINE WINES, LIQUORS AND CIGARS,
Main Street, Pioche.

THE RETAIL DEPARTMENT COMPRISING
a Liquor and Billiard Saloon, with four New and SPLENDID TABLES!
Has been fitted up regardless of expense, and challenges comparison with any Saloon in the State. j22-4f

Armory Hall Saloon,
Formerly known as
BUCKEYE, WILL BE HEREAFTER CONDUCTED BY
K. J. HANLEY, Proprietor.
The choicest brands of WINES, LIQUORS and CIGARS will always be found at the Bar.
j22-4f

JOHN C. LYNCH,
Wholesale and Retail Liquor Merchant,